ANNUAL JURIED EXHIBITION CATALOG

JUNE 11 - AUGUST 7, 2011

JUROR'S STATEMENT

Illustration for children's picture books presents unique challenges for any artist. Like the history painters of the Renaissance, children's picture book illustrations have to tell a story. They have to captivate readers with engaging characters in exciting places. They play with elements of their own and with the stories' times and histories, references and innuendos. But unlike the old masters, picture book illustrators have to maintain that storytelling over many pages. They must draw in a reader with one simple picture on the cover and keep their attention page after page. The best illustrators do this so that generation after generation read their books with the same delight.

Despite their different styles, all the illustrators chosen for this show have these storytelling qualities. That they are also museum members and local artists makes it clear what an extraordinary wealth of talent there is in our region. This exhibition at the Danforth Museum of Art is a way of celebrating that wealth and serves as an inspiration for all young artists.
